

The Cambridge Middle East History Group

Seminar programme, Easter Term 2013:

Tuesday 23 April:

Mirjam Brusius (Max Planck Institute for the History of Science, Berlin), 'Shah Naser al-Din, Photography and Euro-Iranian Relations in the 19th century'
(The Nihon Room, Pembroke College, 5pm)

Tuesday 30 April:

Olivia Sohns (Cambridge), 'Johnson's Arab-Israeli Policies in the Lead-Up to the June 1967 War'
(The Nihon Room, Pembroke College, 5pm)

Thursday 2 May:

Paul Chamberlin (Kentucky), 'The Global Politics of Palestinian Liberation, 1967-1975'
(The Rushmore Room, St. Catharine's College, 5pm - Joint seminar of the Middle East History Group, World History and American History Seminars)

Tuesday 14 May:

John Chalcraft (LSE), 'A Way to Define and Explain Popular Movements in the MENA'
(The Nihon Room, Pembroke College, 5pm)