Graduate seminar in Modern British history

Easter Term 2014

The seminar meets in the Nihon Room, Pembroke College. Meetings start at 5pm. Please note that we will no longer be serving tea beforehand and that therefore papers will start fairly promptly at this time. Instead we will be serving some wine after the paper.

Monday 28 April

Professor Julian Hoppit (University College London)

Refiguring the British fiscal state, 1660-1815

Wine will be served at 6pm

Monday 12 May

500th meeting of the seminar

Professor Sir David Cannadine (Princeton University)

Sherlock Holmes, Conan Doyle and fin-de-siècle London: a case of mistaken identity?

This talk will be followed by a drinks reception to mark the occasion and the final seminar of the year

Eugenio Biagini

Lawrence Klein

Jon Lawrence

Renaud Morieux (convenor)

Jon Parry

Geraint Thomas

The Seminar is grateful for the generous support provided by the Trevelyan Fund
