

Early Modern British and Irish History Seminar Easter Term 2013

The seminar meets on Wednesdays in the Graham Storey Room, Trinity Hall, at 5.15.

- | | |
|--------|---|
| 1 May | Prof Jane Dawson (University of Edinburgh)
Singing the Reformation in Scotland |
| 8 May | Mr Charles Drummond (Trinity College, Cambridge)
The 'Militia Power' and Resistance in Later Stuart Britain |
| 15 May | Mr Ralph Stevens (Fitzwilliam College, Cambridge)
The Challenge of the Toleration Act, 1689-1720 |
| 22 May | Prof Ronald Hutton (Bristol)
... will reflect on his historical career |

Seminars are followed at 6.45 by a drink in Trinity Hall bar, and at 7.15 by dinner in a local restaurant, to which all are welcome.

While the convenors take turns to chair the seminars, they are very happy to step aside if any member wishes to try their hand at chairing.

Seminars generally take the form of a 50-minute paper, either by senior visitors or by Cambridge PhD students, but sometimes take the form of informal surveys of historiographies, or of current collaborative projects, or an intellectual autobiography of a lifetime in early modern history.

Convenors: Mark Goldie, Clare Jackson, John Morrill, David Smith, Alex Walsham.
