

Modern European History Easter Term 2021

The Modern European History Research Seminar is the focal point in Cambridge for graduates and scholars in European history from c. 1750 to the present day.
The Seminar meets on Tuesdays from 5.15 – 7.00pm - online unless otherwise noted.

The graduate-run Modern European History Workshop runs on Thursdays from 10-11:30am.

4th May - Stella Gervas (Newcastle):

Book launch: Conquering Peace: From the Enlightenment to the European Union
(Harvard University Press, 2021)

Discussants: Christopher Clark (Cambridge) and Glenda Sluga (European University Institute)

11th May - Jaclyn Granick (Cardiff):

Book launch: International Jewish Humanitarianism in the Age of the Great War
(Cambridge University Press, 2021)

Discussant: Celia Donert (Cambridge)

18th May - James Morris (Cambridge)

A Revolution in the Middle of Nowhere: 1848 and the Wallachian Countryside

Discussant: Pieter Judson (European University Institute)

25th May – Jean-Michel Johnston (Cambridge):

Book Launch: Networks of Modernity: Germany in the Age of the Telegraph, 1830-1880 (Oxford University Press, 2021)

Discussants: Chris Clark (Cambridge) and Helmut Walser Smith (Vanderbilt)

1st June - Patrick Anthony (Vanderbilt):

Working and Knowing: A Labor History of Humboldt's Science

Discussant: Jean-Michel Johnston (Cambridge)

8th June - John Woitkowitz (Cambridge):

Measuring the Arctic: Transimperial Science and the Polar Geography of August Petermann, 1839-1878